The Dungloe

A Timeless Country Cottage Reimagined

Step into the charm of U Value SIPs with our featured project, The Dungloe—a signature design from our Country Cottage Collection, inspired by the traditional white-washed cottages found across the Donegal hills and along the Wild Atlantic Way.

This beautiful home brings together the warmth and nostalgia of a bygone era with the energy efficiency and comfort of modern SIP construction.

“Nestled in the rugged landscape of Donegal, The Dungloe embodies the spirit of Ireland’s countryside charm.”

About The Dungloe

The Dungloe is a tribute to Ireland's rural heritage—reborn through innovative, fabric-first design.

With its white rendered finish, corrugated-style roof, and simple, timeless proportions, The Dungloe captures the essence of a classic Irish cottage.

Behind its traditional look lies a high-performance SIP structure, ensuring strength, insulation, and modern comfort. Every detail has been crafted to create a home that feels rooted in history yet ready for the future.

“The Dungloe combines traditional beauty with cutting-edge SIP efficiency.”

What Are SIPs?

Structural Insulated Panels (SIPs) are the foundation of The Dungloe. Each panel features a high-performance insulating core between two OSB (oriented strand board) layers, providing exceptional thermal and structural performance.

The result? Faster build times, greater comfort, and a home that stays warm and efficient for generations.
